Professional Designations

Certified Financial Planner (CFP)

The CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER™, CFP® and federally registered CFP (with flame design) marks (collectively, the “CFP® marks”) are professional certification marks granted in the United States by Certified Financial Planner Board of Standards, Inc. (“CFP Board”).

Farris Capital Management Inc.

The CFP® certification is a voluntary certification; no federal or state law or regulation requires financial planners to hold CFP® certification. It is recognized in the United States and a number of other countries for its (1) high standard of professional education; (2) stringent code of conduct and standards of practice; and (3) ethical requirements that govern professional engagements with clients. Currently, more than 62,000 individuals have obtained CFP® certification in the United States.

To attain the right to use the CFP® marks, an individual must satisfactorily fulfill the following requirements:

- Education – Complete an advanced college-level course of study addressing the financial planning subject areas that CFP Board’s studies have determined as necessary for the competent and professional delivery of financial planning services, and attain a Bachelor’s Degree from a regionally accredited United States college or university (or its equivalent from a foreign university). CFP Board’s financial planning subject areas include insurance planning and risk management, employee benefits planning, investment planning, income tax planning, retirement planning, and estate planning;
- Examination – Pass the comprehensive CFP® Certification Examination. The examination, administered in one day over two 3-hour sessions, includes case studies and client scenarios designed to test one’s ability to correctly diagnose financial planning issues and apply one’s knowledge of financial planning to real world circumstances;
- Experience – Complete at least three years of full-time financial planning-related experience (or the equivalent, measured as 2,000 hours per year); and
- Ethics – Agree to be bound by CFP Board’s Standards of Professional Conduct, a set of documents outlining the ethical and practice standards for CFP® professionals.

Individuals who become certified must complete the following ongoing education and ethics requirements in order to maintain the right to continue to use the CFP® marks:

- Continuing Education – Complete 30 hours of continuing education hours every two years, including two hours on the Code of Ethics and other parts of the Standards of Professional Conduct, to maintain competence and keep up with developments in the financial planning field; and
- Ethics – Renew an agreement to be bound by the Standards of Professional Conduct. The Standards prominently require that CFP® professionals provide financial planning services at a fiduciary standard of care. This means CFP® professionals must provide financial planning services in the best interests of their clients.

CFP® professionals who fail to comply with the above standards and requirements may be subject to CFP Board’s enforcement process, which could result in suspension or permanent revocation of their CFP® certification.

CFP Acknowledgment: (ADVISOR) acknowledges his responsibility as a CFP® Certificant to adhere to the standards that have been established in the CFP Board’s Standards of Professional Conduct. If you become aware that (ADVISOR)’s conduct may violate the Standards of Professional Conduct, you may file a complaint with the CFP Board at www.CFP.net/complaint.

Item 3 – Disciplinary Information

Item 4 – Other Business Activities

Registered Representative of a Broker-Dealer

Justin Farris is separately licensed as a registered representative with Securities America, Inc., a registered securities broker/dealer, member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (FINRA) and the Securities Investors Protection Corporation (SIPC). When acting in his separate capacity as a registered representative of Securities America, Inc., Justin Farris may sell, for commissions, general securities products such as stocks, bonds, mutual funds, exchange-traded funds, and variable annuity and variable life products to advisory clients. As such, Justin Farris may suggest that advisory clients implement investment advice by purchasing securities products through a commission-based Securities America, Inc. account in addition to a Farris Capital Management advisory account.

The receipt of commissions creates an incentive for Justin Farris to recommend those products for which he will receive a commission. Consequently, the objectivity of the advice rendered to clients could be biased. Justin Farris controls for this potential conflict of interest by discussing with clients the advantages and disadvantages of establishing a fee-based account through Farris Capital Management versus establishing a commission-based account through Securities America, Inc. Farris Capital

Management does not require its advisor representatives to encourage clients to implement investment advice through Securities America, Inc.

Justin Farris does not earn commissions in fee-based accounts.

Justin Farris will receive 12b-1 fees from certain mutual fund companies as outlined in the fund's prospectus. 12b-1 fees come from fund assets, therefore, indirectly from client assets. The receipt of such fees could represent an incentive for Justin Farris to recommend funds with 12b-1 fees over funds that have no fees or lower fees. Typically, Justin Farris will receive 12b-1 fees only in commission-based brokerage accounts. However, such fees can be earned in fee-based accounts managed by Justin Farris if 12b-1 fee paying mutual funds are held in the managed account. For ERISA accounts, there is an offset for any amount of 12b-1 fees. In such a situation, Justin Farris discusses with clients the selection of a 12b-1 or other trail paying mutual funds. Securities America, Inc. maintains records of all 12b-1 fee payments to Justin Farris which may be viewed by clients upon request.

Clients are never obligated or required to establish accounts through Farris Capital Management or Securities America, Inc. However, if a client does not choose to accept Justin Farris's advice or decides not to establish an account through Securities America, Inc., Justin Farris may not be able to provide management and advisory services to the client. Clients should understand that, due to certain regulatory constraints, Justin Farris, in his capacity as a Securities America, Inc. Justin Farris must place all purchases and sales of securities products in commission-based brokerage accounts through Securities America, Inc. or its other approved institutions.

Insurance Agent

Justin Farris is independently licensed to sell insurance and annuity products through various insurance companies. When acting in this capacity, Justin Farris will receive commissions for selling insurance and annuity products.

Justin Farris may also receive other incentive awards for the recommendation/sale of annuities and other insurance products. The receipt of compensation and other incentive benefits may affect the judgment of Justin Farris when recommending products to its clients. While Justin Farris endeavors at all times to put the interest of his clients first as a part of Farris Capital Management's overall fiduciary duty to clients, clients should be aware that the receipt of commissions and additional compensation itself creates a conflict of interest, and may affect Justin Farris's decision making process when making recommendations.

Clients are never obligated or required to purchase insurance products from or through Justin Farris and may choose any independent insurance agent and insurance company to purchase insurance products. Regardless of the insurance agent selected, the insurance agent or agency will receive normal commissions from the sale.

Item 5 – Additional Compensation

In addition to the description of additional compensation provided in Item 4, Justin Farris can receive additional benefits.

Certain product sponsors may provide Justin Farris with other economic benefits as a result of his recommendation or sale of the product sponsors' investments. The economic benefits received by Justin Farris from product sponsors can include but are not limited to, financial assistance or the sponsorship of conferences and educational sessions, marketing support, incentive awards, payment of travel expenses, and tools to assist Justin Farris in providing various services to clients.

Although Farris Capital Management and Justin Farris endeavor at all times to put the interest of its clients ahead of its own or those of its officers, directors, or representatives (“affiliated persons”), these arrangements could affect the judgment of Justin Farris when recommending investment products. These situations present a conflict of interest that may affect the judgment of affiliated persons including Justin Farris.

Item 6 – Supervision

Justin Farris is the Chief Compliance Officer of Farris Capital Management. He is responsible for overseeing and enforcing the firm’s compliance programs that have been established to monitor and supervise the activities and services provided by the firm and its representatives.
